GIRL GUIDES MOVEMENT COMES OF AGE

HOW IT WAS ADOPTED BY ALL THE WORLD.

BY LORD BADEN-POWELL.

The Girl Guides movement, founded in 1911, this year comes of age.

To balance the disastrous aftermath of the War we can find but few redeeming results, and must, therefore, cherish such as we can discover.

Among these may be reckoned the fact that the War gave women their chance for coming into their own, and, rising to the occasion, they seized it.

Well over twenty years ago they had made a start in taking their share of work in the world, not as a result of clamouring for it, but on their merits as competent workers.

But under the initial difficulties and discouragements, progress was slow till the War came and gave them unlooked for opportunity. They at once took up national service with enthusiasm and effectiveness.

Since then evolution has gone on apace, and in regions not only of business and politics, but also of sport and adventure, have they proved themselves.

GIRLS IN SERVICE AND SPORT.

This is the more creditable when one considers not merely their physical powers, but also their hitherto inadequate training. The traditional Victorian limitations have been broken down, and the girls, largely on their own intuition, have taken their places alongside the men in service and sport.

Education has had but little share in this departure. Education is slow to change its methods. It has in the past been inclined to look back and improve on former academic standards; it is only now beginning to look forward to the future and to prepare the oncoming race to face its destiny.

For this new order of things new methods, if not new aims, are needed. Where scholastic subjects were formerly taught to girls, with added frills in the shape of piano-playing, deportment, and water-colour drawing, to-day general knowledge, domestic science, and bookkeeping are found necessary, and, above all, self-education in character.

Whereas, in the case of boys, education has been designed for them and thrust upon them, with girls it has been different. They have themselves created the demand for more up-to-date training to meet their changed ideals.

OUTDOOR ADVENTURE.

This fact was brought home to me in a typical instance when, as the very first rally of the Boy Scouts, which took place at the Crystal Palace in 1909, there appeared upon parade some groups of girls dressed as near as might be in Scouts' costume who, on being questioned, informed me that they were "the Girl Scouts."

This was an innovation, but an undeniably good one. So we went ahead with scheme of outdoor adventure, coupled with the gang spirit—and a uniform. Under such a gift we applied the pill comprising such ingredients as health and hygiene, home-craft, child-nursing, hand-craft, first-aid, and service for others—but also, and above all, those qualities which go to make character.

The girls met our designs more than half-way. Girls of every rank in life and from all parts of the country flocked to the standard. In their turn they were supported by women who, filled with a sense of service, realised that in the leadership of such girls lay a valuable field for their work.

Thus did the movement grow. In the United Kingdom its members soon outnumbered the Boy Scouts. In 1912, in my journey round the world, I found its seeds already planted in many overseas States.

ROYAL—A QUALITY PRODUCT

Many companies have placed an article before the public selling at a much lower cost to the consumer than ROYAL BAKING POWDER. With ROYAL'S facilities and knowledge in the manufacture of baking powder it would be easy for them to manufacture a cheap baking powder to sell at an even lower price than others. However, ROYAL representatives realize the many advantages in selling a product for which no excuses need be offered and ROYAL customers will undoubtedly realize the many advantages in buying a product of unquestionable quality.

LISTENERS! DO YOU REMEMBER?

THOSE MAGIC NIGHTS "ON THE AIR"—AND WHAT NEXT?

LONDON, May 15.

[The British Broadcasting Corporation moved into its new home at Broadcasting House at midnight. Here Mr. Macdonell, known to countless listeners as "Mac," the originator of the popular "Surprise Item," recalls some of the "past glories of the Savoy Hill studios.]

Well, dear old Savoy Hill is gone, and a brooding silence hangs over these corridors and studios that, until last night, knew only the cat-footed silence of our respect.

There are great nights to come at the new Broadcasting House—with stars just as famous, and staffs just as bound in camaraderie; but somehow the memory will always be crowded with Savoy Hill occasions. Charles the Second used to live there, and his spirit will not be the only one to sink about the precincts.

Last night they wound up in the old quarters with a programme of memories—highlights from the broadcasts that have delighted listeners in the years gone by.

Inevitably, they missed something out. There have been so many good things that merely to recall them would take a longer time than could be afforded by the B.B.C.

Birth of the Great Idea.

But close your eyes, Listener, and think back down these ten tremendous years.

Or, make it twelve, and recapture the thrill that ran round the country when we heard the golden voice of Melba singing "La Bohème"—from Chelmsford.

Do you remember?

Think back a year or two further to these feverish pre-war years when the great idea was taking root in the minds of men. Oliver Lodge, Marconi—these were the scientists behind the revolution. Melba was the artist who put the coping-stone to their structure.

Do you remember, too, those amazing half-hours of talk and music that Capt. Peter Eckersley used to broadcast every week, and the demand we set up all over the country that the Postmaster-General should regularise the service and let us have more of it?

The race was going to the swift when, by 1922, the old British Broadcasting Company was formed by six great wireless firms and, before another full year had passed, we had stations dotted all over.

The Upper Air had been harnessed. Breathlessly, we wondered what would come next.

Move on to 1923 and the General Strike. Do you remember how Savoy Hill became the centre of the Empire when all other communication was either broken down or up safe? How we were held together by the bulletins that were issued throughout those heavy days?

Then was born the British Broadcasting Corporation and a new era was inaugurated. That era closes now with the passing of Savoy Hill. Savoy Hill is dead. Long Live Broadcasting House!

Oscillating—It Isn't Done!

Do you remember, too, these early programmes and the troubles we used to have? How Peter Eckersley pleaded: "Please don't oscillate. It's not done!" (Hong Kong fans please note.)

And the relay of the Cenotaph Service that, for the first time, literally united the whole nation in homage to the dead.

What a thrill for countless thousands, too, when they heard the bookmakers laying odds at Aintree, the cries of backers and the thunder of hooves as the first broadcast Grand National was won and lost. And the first Boat race, and Cup Final.

Ten years of thrills. For the first time in their lives, the people of Great Britain shared in the great national events—the Covent Garden festivals, the Queen's Hall Concerts, the "Proms." Already world-famous artists multiplied their public by hundreds.

Names that had been household words up and down the land became real, became personified.

Does it all come back? And do you recall the delight we had in listening to the Orpheans when we danced to real dance music for the first time?

The Orpheans carried the atmosphere of the West End into homes from Ecclefechan to Land's End. A new instinct for gaiety was given to Britons.

Think, too, of the Negro Odyssey of Paul Robeson, the close harmony of the Ravellers, the fatalities of Tommy Handley, and Flanagan and Jetsam—and a thousand more things that gave listening-in a new magic.

Are you still with me? Then hear Donald Calthrop read his speech of welcome when the King returned to his subjects after his illness.

The Revolution in Whitehall.

And the voice of the Queen as it came over the ether for the first time as she unveiled the Tower Hill memorial. That moment brought her Majesty closer to thousands of people than she had ever been.

What a sensation Father Knox caused when he "described" the revolution in Whitehall, and what a flood of notes and telephone calls came to Savoy Hill from nervous listeners who did not realise that it was all a hoax! That affair taught us a lot more than we cared to admit at the time.

Ten years of laughter, worries, thrills. Remember the night when Tallulah Bankhead collapsed at the microphone from sheer "mike" fright? And that other Sunday when Gracie Fields collected a hundred guineas for a 10 minutes "turn"—and then gave the whole fee to her children's home at Peasehaven.

Names were made in a night. Elsie O'Leary stepped into the studio and sang the lead in "Good Night, Vienna," at a moment's notice when the leading lady fell ill. She was a star next morning.

Olive Groves, the soprano, and Lilian Harrison, the actress, were unknown to thousands before they broadcast. Now everybody knows them. Who could forget Lillie Harrison in "Nurse Henrietta"?

Friends of the Children.

The soul-stirring relay from the Menin Gate... Memorial for R 101... what a sea of memories floods the mind in this retrospect of the years.

Nor must the old familiars be forgotten—the microphone personalities who have kept the programmes going on and on freshly, unfailingly: Christopher Stone saying, "That was Columbia DX 112."

The children of to-day are the listeners of to-morrow... they all ways were! And how well they knew it, those stalwarts like the late L. G. Mainland, Richard Hughes, Arthur Davenport, Stephen King-Hall, C. E. Hodges ("Peter") and Alan Howland ("Columbus").

And the London theatre nights that have been thrown to the provinces, and the fine studio productions of Cecil Lewis, notably "Hassan" and "Lord Jim." Remember, too, the Radio Revues and the Dance Bands—all of them have shouldered the burden of pleasure. Billy Mayerl, Jack Hyton, Jack Payne, Sidney Firman, Henry Hall...

Religion has had its big place too, and all the world has listened for years to our Sunday evening broad casts, to say nothing of the cheer given to thousands of sick in the hospitals by those 15-minute services each morning.

So we have journeyed back to the passing of Savoy Hill and last night's good-byes... good-bye to an old home and good luck to the new—Good Luck and Good Listening! John Macdonell in the Sunday Dispatch.

GIRL GUIDES MOVEMENT COMES OF AGE.

remarkable unanimity of spirit under the one ideal of good will and service. The numbers amount to: British Guides, 726,620, and foreign Guides, 387,767.

A total of 1,094,383. Its increase this year on last year's total was 147,995.

The Girl Guide movement, which now comes of age, has attained its present standing in its first twenty-one years in spite of the initial difficulties of organisation, in the face of ridicule and misconception, and under the set-back of the war.

One may, therefore, look forward with confidence to what may be possible to it in the coming decade or two.

Already there may be some two million young women in Britain who have gone through the training as Guides, and before many years are over there should be at this rate be many millions in the womanhood of the different nations, all imbued with the same spirit of goodwill and co-operation, and recognising each other as members of the same sisterhood.

WORLD BUREAU OF GUIDING.

We have established a World Bureau of Guiding, under the direction of Dame Katharine Furse, G.B.E., through which all countries are in organised touch. This, moreover, is not merely an official touch, but is further developed through the interchange of visits between the girls of the various countries.

From Great Britain alone 2,000 Guides visited their sister Guides abroad in 1931. Thus the girls of the different nations are finding themselves mutually in touch, not only through their self-enrolment under a common ideal and common activities, but also because their strengthened by their coming more into personal touch and acquaintance with one another.

The Guides, coupled with the still greater number of Scouts and ex-Scouts, cannot fail to supply a considerable leaven in each country of people who understand and are in sympathy with their neighbouring nations, and who thus have in them the spirit of goodwill which by many is regarded as the only true foundation on which the League of Nations can effectively work in bringing about peace in the world.

SOVIET WHEAT MUDDLE.

PEASANTS FORCED TO KILL CATTLE.

FACTORY FAILURES.

Geneva.—Illuminating details of the breakdown of the Soviet Five Years Plan are given in a report issued by "the International Committee against the Third International," at Geneva.

"Despite the fact that the last harvest in Russia was extremely bad in several districts," says the report, "the stocking of large quantities of cereals was ordered."

"The result was a shortage throughout the south-eastern district, where the peasants, instead of keeping supplies of grain for spring sowing, were obliged to consume all their stocks. In many places cattle have had to be killed for want of food."

In the industrial domain conditions are just as bad. The famous motor-car factory at Nijni Novgorod, which was to turn out 60,000 cars a year, produced only 16 in February, and it is improbable that the enterprise will be able to continue working.

The new giant foundries for coloured metals in the Urals are in a parlous state, while the big zinc works at Konstantinovka, in the Ukraine, which cost the State £1,000,000, have been closed. The report also accuses the Soviet Government of "taking the figures of its gold reserves."

According to the State Bank, the gold reserve increased last year from £43,400,000 (par value) to £63,500,000, in addition to the export of about £13,000,000.

As, however, Russia's annual gold production is only about £8,400,000, it is permissible to ask where the extra £28,400,000 came from.

Dumping.

Dealing with Russian dumping, the report states that in March the Soviet sold to Belgium 100,000 tons of manganese ore from the Caucasus below market prices.

In Turkey the Soviet have secured the cement and coal market to the detriment of Rumania and Jugoslavina, while their great textile depot at Constantinople has ruined competition throughout the country. Persia's recent commercial agreement with the Soviet has sent up imports of Russian metals from 17 per cent. to 65 per cent. to the detriment of England and Germany.

Japan at least is "fighting the dumping menace, and buyers of Russian goods are demanding orders for an equivalent value."

"Despite her enormous financial obligations elsewhere," states the report, "Germany continues to assume fresh commitments of all kinds with the Soviet. The only plausible explanation of this policy is that at some time within the last year Germany must have obtained big transfers of gold from Moscow."

BOXING.

WORLD CHAMPIONSHIP
SHARKEY BEATS SCHMELING

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

New York, June 21.

In the contest for the world's heavyweight championship to-night, Jack Sharkey, the American challenger, defeated Max Schmeling, the German holder, on points, over fifteen rounds.

80,000 cheering fans saw America, in the shape of Sharkey, wrest the world's championship from Europe at America's latest boxing stadium at the Madison Square Garden New Bowl on Long Island.

Many opined that Schmeling was unquestionably robbed of the decision. He won nine rounds. Sharkey won four, and were two even.

One of the judges, Charles Mathieson gave Schmeling ten rounds. George Kelly was referee. Gunboat Smith, favoured "Sharkey."

The crowd rose to its feet when the decision was announced, roaring its disapproval. Schmeling was absolutely dazed, and stood open-mouthed.

Then he recovered in equilibrium and walked towards Sharkey. He shook hands in congratulation.

Celebrities present included Primo Carnera, Kid Berg, and Mayors Jimmie Walker (New York) and A. Cermak of Chicago.

The Fight.

Throughout the fight the German was most confident. He displayed a fine left, whereas Sharkey indulged in much wild hitting, continually backing around the ring. Both opened cautiously, Schmeling attacking carrying the fight to his opponent.

In the fifth round Sharkey landed a palpably low blow, causing a roar of anger, but the German fought back magnificently. In the eleventh round, Sharkey's left-eye was slowly closing.

Thereafter the German played on the target, Sharkey replying with telling blows to the head. In the last three rounds there were many thrilling exchanges, the German getting in some fine lefts to the face and stinging rights to the jaw and ribs.

Sharkey retaliated with body-blows. Schmeling told Reuter: "I am not greatly worried. How could Sharkey have gained the decision when he was backing away most of the time."

"I will fight him again."

JACK HOBBS DISCUSSES

MEN BEHIND THE STUMPS
WHO ARE MUCH TOO

And The Old Axiom That Wicketkeepers, Like Goalkeepers, Are Mad!

In the not so long ago women were a rarity at cricket matches. An odd member on two would bring along his wife, and knitting needles were soon at work.

Younger women accompanied their fancies, but soon tired of the sitting white fluff against the green background. Unashamedly, books were produced, and presently cricket was conveniently forgotten in the more thrilling adventures of Charles Garvie and Ethel M. Dell. Like Queen Victoria on a celebrated occasion, our young women were not amused.

Such days are no more. The fair sex now flock to cricket in enthusiasm, even critical, mood. The modern girl is athletic, and what is more, she has studied cricket and knows its finer points.

ALL "MAD."

Is this a new menace to mere man?

I ask the question because a lady correspondent, evidently a candid friend of the Surrey club, objects to Brooks, our wicket-keeper. Brooks, in her eyes, is too theatrical and distracts the batsman unnecessarily.

One might make the excuse that wicketkeepers, like goalkeepers, are all mad. That, at least, is a cricket axiom, but I fear my correspondent is a little unfair to Brooks.

After all, the batsman, once the ball has passed him, cannot very well be distracted. The fieldsmen, as a rule, are unconscious of what goes on. They are too busy watching the flight of the ball to worry much about the stumper.

Now we all have our mannerisms which react in different ways on the individuals who make up a crowd. Most of us are accused at some time or other of the most unlikely things.

FULL OF TRICKS.

For instance, while fielding in Australia I was accused of throwing down my cap when an umpire's decision annoyed me. To my friends this was laughable, for they knew that I was not in the habit of behaving like a ten-year-old boy in a school match. Still, it only goes to show the danger of a mannerism.

Bill Hitch was full of little tricks and gallery play, yet he was the idol of a big section of the Oval crowd. Others found it irksome, and it was the same with Cecil Parkin, of Lancashire. His antics tickled some people to death and bored the more staid onlookers.

Coming back to wicketkeepers, Herbert Stradwick, of Surrey, was both quiet and effective, making nothing of the most difficult tests. On the other hand, was another unostentatious player, and Percy Sherwell, the South African, who came to this country in 1904, was a magnificent stumper who made no fuss whatever.

Of the present-day men, Leslie Ames, of Kent, is very solid. Indeed, it may be said of Ames that he is, perhaps, not spectacular enough.

My lady correspondent also suggested that Surrey, having inadequate bowling, have instituted a "reign of terror" to get batsmen out.

Nothing is farther from the truth. Trying to hustle opponents out is one of the things not done in cricket. In my opinion, players are unscrupulously fair, although there is something to be said against the fast bowler—as developed in recent years—who attempts to bowl at the batsman.

Intimidation does not come into the cricket scheme of things. Had our critics come into the Oval dressing-room the other wet day, and watched the Somerset lads joining the Surrey opponents in a jovial game of cards, she might have changed her opinion.

COMRADES.

Perhaps one of the most wonderful things about cricket is that the players are always friends off the field. The spirit of camaraderie is strong.

In the heat of the moment Soccer and Rugby players sometimes get annoyed with one another, but the tempo of cricket is different, and I have known bowlers after an unsuccessful low appeal apologise to the batsman concerned.

The Lancashire v. Yorkshire crowd occasionally got boisterous, and at Blackheath the spectators used to pull one another's legs unmercifully, but the feeling was seldom, if ever, conveyed to the players.

Before leaving this subject I would remind our dynamic critics that things are not always what they seem from the ring. And I cannot subscribe to her opinion that F. R. Brown shows irritating signs of annoyance when he misses the stumps by a hair's-breadth. Mr. Brown is too good a sportsman to worry about trifles like that.

Whitcombe is again here and in these cricket competition may be said to have started. I wish Jack Hearne a bumper second benefit in the Middlesex v. Sussex match at Lord's. Not long ago he was always known as "Young Jack," now I suppose they are beginning to call him "Old Hearne."

In recent years Jack has been an unlucky player with injuries, and he has not enjoyed the best of health. Even now he is one of the few really good spin bowlers in England.

Hearne will be grieved that Hendren is not playing in his benefit, for Pat is a great attraction anywhere and at any time.

In answer to several queries, I want to make it plain that I shall not play in the Australian Test matches next winter. For one thing, we all have to bow to age, and for another I have signed a contract to report the matches there. In any case, youth ought to have a flag, and why not start now?

A reader wants to know whether Headley, the West Indian batsman who put up a dazzling sequence of big scores against Lord Tennyson's XI last winter, is in the same class as Bradman.

I can hardly put Headley in Bradman's class yet, though I have glowing accounts of this young man, who had several good scores in Australia. He must be a phenomenon, though I prefer to reserve judgment until seeing him play here next season. After all, the matches against Lord Tennyson's team were mainly picnic affairs.

Two more correspondents remain to be dealt with. One puts the old query, "If a fieldsmen has his foot over the line when returning the ball to the wicket, is this a boundary?" Yes. When the player has the ball in hand and his foot strays over the line, then a boundary is scored.

Another question is, "What is the best policy with fast bowling?" There is no hard-and-fast rule. It all depends on the length of the ball and the reach of the batsman.

I find it is a good general rule to play back whenever you can. Forward play should only be attempted when there is no alternative.

THE HARDOON WILL CASE.

INTEREST OF DECEASED IN SETTLEMENT.

SOLOMON'S RULING BETTERED.

SHANGHAI, June 16. In H.M. Supreme Court, yesterday, Judge Sir Peter Grain continued the hearing of the action in probate by Ezra Abdullah Haroon (claiming to be a cousin of the late Mr. S. A. Haroon, of Shanghai) against Mrs. Liza Haroon (the widow), executrix and sole beneficiary under the will, with a view to determining the validity of the will. The plaintiff is represented by Mr. H. P. Wilkinson, K.C., with Mr. H. Browett, and the defendant by Mr. Eldon Potter, K.C., of Hong Kong, with Mr. G. H. Wright, whilst Mr. H. B. Samuel, of London, with Mr. E. L. Hartopp, is joined as a plaintiff on behalf of Mr. Isaac Silas Jacob Haroon, of Bombay, who also claims to be a relative of the deceased.

For the convenience of the witness, the Judge permitted Mr. Potter to break off in his opening address and call Mr. C. Harpur, Commissioner of Works to the S.M.C.

British Representative.

Mr. Haroon was on the Municipal Council, as a British representative, from 1890 to 1903. So far as witness knew, Mr. Haroon's land (which he was buying up to the time of his death) was all registered in the British Consulate.

Cross-examined by Mr. Samuel, witness believed the bulk of Mr. Haroon's property was in the International Settlement. He could only call to mind one piece in the extended roads area, which belonged to Mr. Haroon and that passed out of his possession some time ago.

Tribute to S.V.C.

Witness admitted acquaintance with what Mr. Samuel styled "that very deserving institution called the Shanghai Volunteer Corps," and he had served in it. It was maintained to some extent out of the budget of the Municipal Council and partly by the Volunteers themselves. The Russian Detachment did police and gaoi duties which the ordinary Volunteers did not.

An Unreported Case.

Mr. Potter then continued his opening address. Drawing from Mr. Wilkinson the remark:—"We want to divide this estate," he said he was reminded of an unreported decision in a Chinese dispute between the sons of a deceased as to the division of an estate. The matter was put up to the headman of a village, who heard the complaint and then delivered judgment. To the eldest son he said it was obvious that it was for him to divide the estate, whereupon the eldest son made his chin-chins and was very pleased. Then the headman turned to the younger son and said:—"However, you as the younger son, will have the first choice." Counsel thought that was a judgment exceeding even that of Solomon.

Mr. Potter having concluded his opening, Mr. Wilkinson opened for the plaintiff. He referred to the plaintiff's first meeting with Mr. Haroon, which resulted in the deceased giving the plaintiff $750.

The Judge: Not a very hearty welcome, to give him $750 to go out of the country!

Mr. Samuel: Perhaps the ordinary way of treating a poor relation!

Mr. Wilkinson said the point as to kinship was vital. The plaintiff said that he was a cousin and one of the next of kin of the late Mr. Haroon. The defendant professed not to have any knowledge of that and did not admit the kinship. The evidence was that the plaintiff bore the same name and came from the same place, and it had been stated that the name was not a common one, like Smith or Wilkinson. On his arrival in Shanghai, he went to see a rich relation, which was the natural thing to do. They spent some time in discussing common relatives, and the deceased pointed out that the plaintiff could not expect to make a fortune in Shanghai, as he could not talk Chinese or English. Then came a fact, that no impostor could invite—that some time after he received through intermediaries $750, with a condition attached.

Did Not Want Poor Relation.

It seemed clear from the evidence of Mr. Abraham that Mr. Haroon attached the condition because he did not want a poor relation about the place. Mr. Ezra also had stated that he spoke to Mr. Haroon about the plaintiff as a relative and Mr. Haroon did not deny it.

Mr. Wilkinson said there was one convincing argument that the plaintiff was the man he said he was. Mr. Haroon did not die yesterday, the claim was not brought yesterday, and there was a considerable amount of money in the hands of Mrs. Haroon. If anyone could prove that the plaintiff was not the man he said he was, the case was ended. No such steps had been taken. If he was not the man he said he was, then who was he?

Coming to legal points, Mr. Wilkinson said it had been argued that the Supreme Court in reality was a Chinese Court, and similarly he argued that by Treaty it was a Court of Iraq. Its jurisdiction was not questioned. The principal reason the widow had been sued here was that the assets were here, and as an Iraqi, this was the only Court in which she could be sued.

The Judge: Why do you say this is a Court of Iraq?

Mr. Wilkinson: Great Britain has a mandate and a treaty by which the King of Iraq undertook to draw up a fundamental law and a constitution, and we undertook to protect his subject.

The Judge: As British subjects?

Mr. Wilkinson: As British protected subjects, wherever there is no diplomatic representation.

Mr. Wilkinson further contended that he had proved the universal Jewish law, which it was his submission was recognised in Iraq where Jews were concerned.

Mr. Wilkinson contended that Mr. Haroon was not a British subject and had not been one at any time, by birth, naturalisation, or in any legal sense. He was a Turk up to the end of the Great War and the erroneous registration, which was but a confirmation of an honour conferred upon him, had no legal effect. It was his contention that Mr. Haroon was in no sense a British subject except so far as he was a protected person to whom British law applied in accordance with the treaty, that he was never domiciled in China, and that he never could be domiciled in Shanghai, even though it was his declared domicile of choice by his first will, whilst the one that was proved said China. The Court had power to apply Iraqi law to his will and property so far as the will was in accordance with that law.

Mr. Samuel followed, to sum up on behalf of his client. He said he contended that it was not legally possible for the deceased to shake off his domicile of origin and acquire a domicile in China, but, even if he had done so, it only brought them to the same goal by a more circuitous route, because in such case the Court would have to refer to the law of China, which in turn would bring them back to the law of Iraq.

Needless Alarm.

On the argument that it was impossible to acquire a domicile in the International Settlement, Mr. Samuel said that Mr. Potter had drawn an alarming picture of the number of spouses who would be "living in sin" if the Judge decided in the way he (Mr. Samuel) suggested was the proper way.

In the case of a ship registered under the British flag, a person living on it could not acquire a domicile in any particular country in whose waters that ship was navigated. There was a similar attitude with regard to embassies. He would submit that, in its inception, the International Settlement, when it was mainly British, was regarded by the first Judge of that Court as really in the nature of a foreign Settlement or Colony of the Crown and, when matters developed and it became international, it was an International Settlement of various states. He would also point out that, for a good deal of the characteristic features of the International Settlement, the consent of the sovereign Power of China had been deemed unnecessary, although there might have been a measure of acquiescence. The distinction he would draw would be that, so far as the International Settlement was concerned, the bulk of the laws were not the municipal laws of China, but they were legislation passed by what was in substance a quasi-autonomous body called into existence by the diplomatic representatives of the Treaty Powers and responsible only to them. The jurisdiction of the United States and Great Britain emanated, so far as the latter was concerned, solely by the exercise of the prerogative expressed in Orders-in-Council, and so far as the United States was concerned, by bringing into existence a fait accompli.

Ground Rents.

During an argument as to ground rents and whether these were enforceable by China, Mr. Samuel contended that they were, but only through foreign Courts.

Mr. Potter: No, the land reverts automatically if the ground rents are not paid.

When Mr. Samuel reverted to his earlier point about the S.V.C. being employed to keep Chinese troops out of the Settlement, Mr. Potter interposed:—"I think the position should be put correctly. The true position is that the Municipal Council will not allow any armed troops in the Settlement—British, American, Japanese, or any other—until they have declared a state of emergency. There is no discrimination against Chinese armed troops."

The hearing was further adjourned.

CHOLERA SCOURGE.

LOCAL PRECAUTIONS
AGAINST DISEASE.NEW GOVERNMENT REGULATIONS.

An official notice from the Secretary of the Sanitary Board states:

The Sanitary Board wishes to draw the attention of the public to the possibility of contracting cholera from eating uncooked vegetables and fruit.

From the Medical Officer we learn that the Governor-in-Council is bringing into force almost immediately the following regulations:

"No person shall sell or offer for sale any fresh fruit unless the same is whole."

Dr. Pope explained that the above is brought against the vendors of cut fruit or fruits that are peeled.

"No person shall sell or offer for sale ice-cream or any frozen or chilled preparation commonly known as ice-cream unless the seller holds a permit in writing signed by the Head of the Sanitary Board and Medical Officer of Health."

Advice by M.O.H.

In order that more definite facts regarding the situation might be placed before the public, our representative called on the Medical Officer of Health (Dr. G. W. Pope) who, in reply to a question, said that one local case of cholera was reported yesterday. The victim was a Chinese from the Tai Yuen Street district.

Regarding the question of fruits, Dr. Pope stated that hard fruits are definitely less dangerous. Hard fruits, include fruits like the lichee, mangosteen, apple and oranges. Dr. Pope, however, said that it would be advisable to wash these in a weak solution of magnesia potash before eating them, as, though the fruits themselves might be free of the germ, they might be contaminated by being put together with other soft fruits in the stalls.

Water melon, papaya, cucumber, over-ripe fruits, unripe fruits and anything that might cause digestive trouble must, definitely, be avoided.

"Is there any danger in drinking aerated water?" asked our representative. "Not if the aerated water is from a local firm of good repute," was Dr. Pope's reply.

Dr. Pope then went on to say that cholera was infectious rather than contagious, and when asked if crowded places must be avoided replied in the negative. Dr. Pope added that a mere crowd is not in itself dangerous.

Danger from Ice.

Our representative's next question was, "Is there any danger in taking ice?"

"The mere fact of freezing does not kill the germ," said Dr. Pope, "but, again, ice is undesirable to use unless it is known to come from a reliable source of water supply. Even then the ice might be contaminated while being conveyed from vendor and consumer. A good plan is to give the ice a good wash under a running tap before putting it away in your ice-chest."

In reply to a further question, Dr. Pope said that vaccination was of definite value but it is not anything as valuable as personal attention and personal cleanliness.

Regarding the symptoms of this dread disease, the Medical Officer of Health said that any condition of diarrhoea must be looked upon seriously and it is highly undesirable to rush off to a hearty purgative (like most people do) in the hope of chasing it off. All excesses must be avoided.

Questions at Council Meeting.

Questions concerning measures for preventing the spread of cholera to Hong Kong from Canton are to be asked by the Hon. Sir Henry Pollock K.C. at to-day's meeting of the Legislative Council.

Sir Henry's questions are as follows:

1. What measures do you recommend should be adopted by the Government for the prevention of the spread of cholera from Canton to Hong Kong?

2. Is there a sufficiency, in this Colony, of (i) anti-cholera serum, (ii) other anti-cholera remedies and medicines? If not, what steps do you recommend should be taken by the Government for remedying such deficiencies, if any?

CHOLERA CASES IN NANKINGDISEASE SPREADING IN AN ALARMING MANNERAEROPLANES DROP PAMPHLETS.

Nanking, June 14.—An epidemic of cholera at Nanking, as predicted by the health authorities, is spreading in an alarming manner, according to a statement made to-day.

Dr. J. Keng Liu announced that about 100 authentic cases have already been reported, and over 80 in the past three days. Most of the cases are being treated at the Central Hospital where the doctors and nurses are working night and day. Extra hospital accommodations are being provided by turning the nurses' dormitory into extra wards, and sending the nurses to a home outside the hospital grounds which has been rented for the occasion.

Posters warning the people of the dangers of unboiled water and uncooked food, and urging them to arrange for preventive inoculations are seen in all the streets.

The anti-cholera campaign has even included the use of an aeroplane from which pamphlets depicting the dangers of the dread disease and preventive measures against it are dropped to the streets.

DRUGS LAXITY AT HOSPITAL.SEVERE CRITICISM IN REPORT.

TOO MUCH LEFT TO MATRON.

The report of the committee which has been investigating the administration of the Livingstone Hospital, Darford, was issued last month.

The committee was appointed by the British Hospitals Association, following an request of a woman patient who died as the result of being given belladonna in mistake for syrup of figs, the medicine having been given to her by a young practitioner nurse.

Referring to the responsibility placed upon the matron of the hospital the report states:

"There is no doubt whatever that, with regard to the handling of poisonous drugs, the practice has been not only at complete variance with the teaching at the schools at which both the matron and sister were trained, but also at variance with the dictates of common prudence."

The committee states, with regard to the prescribing of medicine, that:

"We find a laxity which can only be regarded as dangerous. We are of opinion that the committee of management has not appreciated the fact that the ultimate responsibility for the efficient management of the hospital rests with it, and that this responsibility is not entirely met by the appointment of officials, however competent, these may be or however high the qualification possessed."

Reorganisation Advised.

"There is no doubt that the committee of management has regarded the matron as its chief executive officer and placed heavy responsibility upon her. She does not appear to have had adequate access to either the general committee or the house committee, nor have there been any officers, either lay or professional, on whom she could rely for help or advice in the carrying out of her duties."

"We are of opinion that the purely administrative side of the hospital requires reorganisation. There is much in a hospital of a purely business character which can only be efficiently conducted if business methods are followed."

"We strongly urge the committee without delay to provide everything that is necessary for the safeguarding of poisonous drugs in respect of purchases, receipts, dispensing, and administration."

It is stated that prior to the issue of the report the committee of management of the hospital had given instructions with regard to the purchase and the administration of drugs in the hospital. A fully-qualified person has been obtained to attend the hospital to issue all drugs, and no persons other than qualified men will in future have access to the dispensary.

VILLAGE ROAD
MURDER.POSSIBILITY OF FURTHER
EVIDENCE.ATTORNEY-GENERAL'S INDICATION.

The possibility of further witnesses being called than was indicated by Mr. Lindsell in his opening, was indicated by the Assistant Attorney General yesterday at the close of the hearing in the case in which Cheng Kwok Yau is charged with procuring the murder of George Fung on the night of March 24.

Mr. Lindsell, in answer to a question by the bench as to how many more witnesses he had, said: "On my original opening there are five more short witnesses to call, but it may well be that the case will have to go a good deal further than that."

Yesterday afternoon was spent by his Worship reading over to her the evidence given by Lai Ming Fai (Fay). The girl agreed to practically the whole of it excepting one part in which is alleged to have stated in answer to Mr. Hall Brutton that her feelings for Cheng had been growing colder and colder and that she was seeking a suitable opportunity to leave him.

Fung Could Not Support Fay.

Yesterday she said that she was not getting colder in her attitude to the accused. "I knew Fung could not support me. He told me so and he wanted me to marry Cheng. I was not waiting for a favourable opportunity to leave him; but for his ordering me out, I would not have left him."

Asked whether she had previously said that the accused's feelings for her had been getting colder, witness said she could not say.

Mr. Hall Brutton drew his Worship's attention to the fact that witness had previously answered in the affirmative to the following question: "Is it true that he wanted to get rid of you?"

The same question was put to the girl who yesterday replied that she could not say.

The case was adjourned until to-day.

PILFERING CARGO
CHARGE.PLEA OF GUILTY
WITHDRAWN.

At the Central Magistracy yesterday morning, before Mr. Wynne Jones, Mr. C. Y. Kwan made an application to withdraw a plea of guilty made by his client in answer to a charge of pilfering cargo consigned to Kanyamally & Co. The case had come up on remand, the previous hearing having seen the man in question and two others plead guilty to the theft of silk and velvet to the value of $1,245, while two women charged with receiving the goods, well knowing them to have been stolen, pleaded not guilty.

Mr. Kwan, in asking permission to withdraw his client's plea of guilty, said that since the first hearing he had had time to go into the circumstances of the case and had since advised his client to plead not guilty. He applied for bail for his client.

Bail was opposed by Detective-Sergeant Fitches, for the prosecution, because of the amount involved and because there was an epidemic of such cases of pilfering. The defendants were remanded until next Monday, bail being granted to Mr. Kwan's client in $1,000 and to the fourth and fifth in $500 each.

On the application of Messrs. Deacons, Solicitors, probate has been granted to Miss Mary Manuk, testator's sister.

In his will Mr. Manuk left all his real estate and personal effects to his sister, including 100 shares in the Hong Kong and Shanghai Banking Corporation.

To his other sister, Mrs. R. Gregory, testator bequeathed $25,000 in Hong Kong currency.

In recognition of her great kindness to testator, a sum of $1,000 and 300 shares in the Union Insurance Society of Canton, Ltd., are left to Mrs. J. McD. Howie, of Sydney, Australia.

DEATH OF MR. H. J.
LAMB.WELL-KNOWN FIGURE
PASSES AWAY.

The death occurred at the War Memorial Hospital yesterday morning of Mr. Harry James Lamb, at the age of 41 years, from pneumonia, followed by complications.

The late Mr. Lamb was a strong supporter of the Union Church, Hong Kong, serving as Treasurer of that Church for two years. At the time of his death he was on the Committee, and serving as a trustee. He came to Hong Kong from Aberdeen in 1920 as a representative for Messrs Arthur and Co. (Export), which position he has held here since that time.

During the war he served at the front with the Highland Light Infantry, being wounded at the Battle of the Somme, and being taken prisoner of war. He was awarded the Military Medal for conspicuous gallantry at the front.

The deceased was a member of the Hong Kong Club, and of the Victoria Lodge of Freemasons. He was unmarried, but is survived by three sisters and two brothers, resident in Aberdeen, Scotland. The late Mr. Lamb's death will be regretted by a large circle of friends and admirers. He was an extremely popular man, one who delighted in doing good by stealth. The successive ministers of the Union Church had always placed the greatest reliance on his judgment and advice, and he leaves a place on the administrative body of that Church which will not easily be filled. He gave constant supervision to the recent extensive renovation scheme of the Union Church, and played an important part in establishing the new Union Church, Kowloon.

JULY HOLIDAY SUGGESTION

[TO THE EDITOR OF THE "HONG KONG DAILY PRESS."]

DEAR SIR,—In view of the fact that the first week-day in July is to be a general and public holiday, may I through the medium of your paper, suggest to the Powers that be, that falling as it does this year on a Friday, the following Saturday may also be declared a day "off."

By forgoing the three hours or so on Saturday forenoon, many a resident whose nerves have been shattered by a hectic June with days alternated with steamy heat, rain and fog, would be given an excellent opportunity of having three uninterrupted days in which to regain his lost vitality by disporting himself without any care or hindrance (not necessarily à la Nudist) in some breezy sea-side resorts or by taking a short sea trip to a neighbouring port.

Moreover I feel sure that the Banking establishments would welcome this suggestion as it would give their staff a spell of 3 unbroken days, free from public interruptions to cope with their half yearly balances.

Thanking you for the courtesy of publishing this letter.—Yours faithfully,

RAGGED NERVES.

LOSS TO INDIAN
COMMUNITY.DEATH OF MRS. U.
RUMJAHN.

The local Indian community has suffered a great loss through the death of Mrs. Rumjahn, wife of Mr. U. Rumjahn, which occurred at her residence, 3 Arbuthnot Road yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Rumjahn had been ill for some time so that her death did not come as a shock to a large circle of relatives and friends. Mrs. Rumjahn was in her sixty-first year and leaves a widow, three sons, one of whom, Dr. Jaffir Rumjahn, is in Liverpool and two daughters to mourn her loss. Her other two sons are the well-known local sportsmen—Messrs. A. H. and A. A.—more familiarly known as "Arthur"—Rumjahn while the local tennis champions, Messrs. S. A. and H. D. Rumjahn, are nephews.

One particularly sad feature of her death is that her husband—Mr. U. Rumjahn, a very prominent member of the Indian community—is also ill and had only recently come out of the hospital.

The deceased was a very popular lady and her charming personality won for her the affection of a very large circle of friends whose sympathy will be extended to Mr. Rumjahn and family in their very great loss.

The funeral takes place this afternoon, leaving Arbuthnot Road at 3 p.m. and will pass the monument about half-an-hour or forty minutes later.

FRICTION.SPEAKER AT ROTARY CON-VENTION ASKS FOR MODIFICATION.

Honolulu, June 14.—Dr. Samuel J. Hume of Berkeley, California, secretary of the California Council on Oriental Relations, in an address to-day before the fourth Pacific Rotary Club Convention urged modification of the United States immigration law so as to permit a quota of Japanese and Chinese to enter the country.

He declared that such a course is essential in order that the United States remove the friction which immigration discrimination has caused.

"Once this friction is removed, he said, the United States can enter upon a greater share of participation in the vast potential markets of the Pacific area."

He also mentioned the names of Messrs. J. P. E. Janner, Mr. M. F. Koy, Mr. A. Man Ring Cheung, Mr. E. Hinzworth, Rev. and Mrs. E. G. Powell, Mr. D. S. Edwards.

FRANCE AND HER ARMAMENTS.

AMERICA'S attitude towards Europe has, since the War, been based on the theory that if the countries of the Old World could afford immense expenditure on armaments, including in several instances the retention of compulsory service, they could also afford to pay war debts.

The United States is still hankering the two subjects, armaments and war debts. Apparently Great Britain is in agreement, being extremely anxious to see both burdens lifted. Italy and Germany are standing in with her, but no mention is made of Japan and Russia. Both are incalculable factors, but Japan has shown a general tendency, in dealing with European countries, to accept a fair bargain in the matters of disarmament.

Still less has France any reason to trust Italy. MUSSOLINI has revived the Roman ideal. But what was Rome if not the conqueror—of Carthage, and also of Gaul? Is not the Italian Press full of open and veiled menaces, and are not many of the Duce's utterances capable of sinister interpretation. French statesmen realise that MUSSOLINI is seeking to train his countrymen to make them a well-drilled, fit and efficient nation; that Fascism is a super-boy scout movement, rather than aggressive militarism. But suppose a less wise and steady hand were on the helm. Might not the dogs-of-war be loosed to save the break-up of Fascism? France can take no risks with Italy. She will not attack, but her citizens stand to arms.

When it comes to Germany, the perpetual resistance to payment of reparations, the "Steel Helmets," and Nazis, the pocket battleships, do not suggest to France the proper change of spirit that she requires before she can feel safe with her enemy of a thousand years. War is a matter of the longest pocket, when armaments and fighting spirit are equal. While the least sign of the fighting spirit remains France will see, as far as lies in her power, that Germany has neither of the other two requisites of war. The policy of emptying Germany's pockets has had such disastrous results all round that France is prepared to make concessions in that direction, but that leaves less reason than ever for slackening up on precautionary measures for defence.

A certain Asiatic Teacher of a long time ago is reported by one of his followers to have given the curious advice, "Resist not evil with evil." At first sight, the sentiment sounds ridiculous, but it might be applicable to the present tangle. A French author, more appreciated abroad than in our own country, once told the story of a wonderful old gentleman, TARTARIN de TARASCON, who wandered through the peaceful streets of his native town, with pistols and daggers in his belt, a great sabre at his side, and a carbine slung across his shoulder. Once, with full armament, and clad in Turkish costume, he went to Marseilles and on to sophisticated Algiers. With true French politeness no one stared, if now and then they gently mocked. All of France said the author "est un peu de Tartarin." Could not the nations treat their Tartarin as his townsfolk treated the prototype. They say his point of view, and because they accepted what he considered right, no harm came to them.

Tale of the Day.

"I want to know if I have grounds for a divorce!"
"Are you married?"
"Yes."
"Of course you have."

The Soft Answer.

The girl on a Sydney telephone exchange scored neatly off a visiting American the other day, when, told that he would have to pay extra to talk to Gosford, roared: "That's outrageous! Why, in my home city of Chicago one can talk to b—ll and back for two-pence!"

"Well," said the operator sweetly, "that's inside the city limits!"

Jazz Conversation.

A well-known song writer, who can see a joke against the sentimental twaddle written by most of his kind, keeps a clipping from New York "Life," entitled, "Two Writers of Jazz Lyrics Have a Chat."

"Hello there, Jack, old boy! Might be glad to see you back, old boy!"

"Hello, George! Gee, it's great to be home again, never to roam again. Skies were grey while I was away, but since I park, park, packed my pack in my little old Park, Park-avenue shack, I'm feeling happy and gay."

"Have you seen your little gal, your one and only pal?"

"Have I! Just step a little closer this way and listen to what I have to say: I took her in my arms again, felt her tender charms again. I sure did miss the bliss of her kiss while I was out in Detroit."

"She was blue and broken-hearted the day you departed."

"Yeah, so she told me. But since her lovin' papa came a-knockin' at the door, she's got nothin' to do with the blues no more."

"Well, so long, old pal. Got a little date for half-past eight. Have to hurry along, scurry along, cause she's fast-steppin' mama and she can't wait."

"So long, old pal, see you again providing you don't run away with her."

It might be remarked, also, that if pigs could fly they would be extremely ungainly birds.

Artificial Grass.

A strip of evergreen artificial grass, made of a composition of slate and asphalt on a cinder base, has been laid down in a New York street.

And when the Lawn Mower Manufacturers and their employees, plus the Scouters Designers and their employees, plus the Garden Hose Guilds, the Tulip Improvers' League, the Rose Fanciers' Society, the Tree lovers and the Casual Gardeners' Union, had had their say—well!

Mr. Babbitt, of Main-street, lay on the artificial grass lawn with the artificial herbaceous border, blind to the artificial roses and holly-hocks, and so forth, waving in the artificial breeze of artificial spring, with his artificial eyes turned sightlessly up to the artificial clouds, and breathed his last. He had been artificially killed as a protest against this kind of progress.

Costa Rican Fliers Build Orchid Hedge.

A hedge of orchids for an airport may sound like extravagance, but such a thing exists, however, at San José, Costa Rica, according to reports brought to Miami by air pilots.

The entire force at the airport, it is reported, went back into the hill and mountain districts of the country to collect orchids. More than 300 plants of the best species were collected and transplanted on posts bordering the driveway to the station. At the present market price for orchids in New York City this fence is worth in the neighbourhood of $1,500.

It is a film that anyone who is interested in China should not miss.

A Chinese searched by Sergeant Danbrow in Queen's Road Central at an early hour on Tuesday morning carried a parcel containing a towel on which the name of the Very Rev. A. Swann, Dean of St. John's Cathedral, appeared.

Other articles contained in the parcel led to an investigation of the Dean's office at the Cathedral, and it was discovered that a pane of glass in a window had been smashed, enabling the thief to unbolt the window from the inside. Included in the swag were a desk telephone, a tin of cigarettes, a water tap, a match box stand, a hairbrush, a piece of candle, a towel and other miscellaneous articles. The thief was sent to prison for three months by Mr. Wynne Jones.

Looking Back 50 Years.

The sentences of the murderer Tike Ram to death again brings up the question of the manner in which executions in Hong Kong are conducted. It is now a decade since public executions were done away with in England, and since that time the extreme sentence of the law has always been carried out in private. Hong Kong still adheres to the barbarous system of making the death throes of a fellow-being an exhibition for the amusement and delectation of such as may take delight in such a sight. More than once we have advocated the adoption of the English rule of privacy in relation to executions but hitherto no public feeling has been evoked on the subject.—Hong Kong Daily Press, June 23, 1932.

ADOPTION OF BABY GIRLS.

LARGE NUMBER OF REQUESTS HANDLED BY SOCIETIES.

London.—So many people are anxious to adopt baby girls that the adoption societies report that they have "waiting lists." Both the Rev. W. F. Buttle, honorary secretary of the adoption society which has its headquarters in Church House, and Miss Blackburn, honorary secretary of the National Adoption Society, say the same thing.

"We have a number of boys waiting for homes," says Mr. Buttle, "but we have quite a number of people waiting for girls. Last year the applications for girls exceeded those for boys by about three to one."

"The reason is, I think, that couples who have no expectation of children of their own are influenced by the feeling that 'a son is a son all he gets a wife, but a girl is a daughter all her life.' This is a wise of the fact that daughters also grow up and get married."

"Then again, a good many applications come from retired headmistresses of schools, who miss being surrounded by children, and usually want girls. Husbands in childless homes think that a girl will grow up as a companion for their wives as the years pass."

"Few people realise that, since the Act of 1923, there are four 'registers' at Somerset House, the fourth being for adopted children. On that register, only the date of adoption and the new name are entered."

There is no possibility in after years of the child learning the exact circumstances of its birth, though I always suggest to the adopting parents that they should in due time let the child know, with the explanation, usually, that the parents are dead."

Members of his escort describe him as an honest, fanatic, ambitious, becoming a "Red Napoleon" with the whole of South America in his power.

THE MEMORANDUM EMPHASISED THE NECESSITY FOR CONCERTED ACTION FOR AN ADVANCE TOWARDS A SOLUTION OF THE ECONOMIC PROBLEM.

IN VIEW OF FRENCH ANXIETY IN REGARD TO HER SECURITY, IT SUGGESTS A SORT OF CONSULTATION CLAUSE BY WHICH GERMANY AND INTERESTED POWERS COULD MEET IN THE EVENT OF ANY THREAT TO HER SECURITY AND PEACE.

THE FRENCH AND BELGIAN DELEGATES ARE AGREED ON A COMMON FRONT, AND IT IS EVEN RUMOURED THEY HAVE AGREED THAT THE EVENTUAL GERMAN PAYMENT SHOULD BE ABOUT SEVEN OR EIGHT MILLIARD MARKS, BUT THE BRITISH POLICY OF A "CLEAN SLATE" IS UNALTERED, AND THE GERMAN SPOKESMAN INTIMATED THAT GERMANY WILL NOT ACCEPT THE PROPOSAL FOR THE ISSUE OF RAILWAY BONDS.

LAUSANNE, June 22.

THE General Commission of the Disarmament Conference will meet at 4 p.m. to consider the American proposal for the reduction in land, sea and air effectives.

The meeting was convened at the request of the American representative after a visit to Mr. Ramsay MacDonald yesterday, and will synchronise with a most important proclamation by President Hoover appealing to the people in the world to seriously try and achieve disarmament.

Private Conversations.

(BRITISH WIRELESS SERVICE.)

RUGBY, June 21.

Private conversations between the leading delegates again occupied the time and attention of world statesmen to-day, both at Geneva and at Lausanne.

Close secrecy is being observed in official quarters regarding the trend of these talks, but it is known that the statesmen consider that at the present stage they constitute the best method of reaching a solution of the problems with which they are confronted.

Newspaper correspondents attach particular importance to the meeting held late last night between Mr. Herriot and M. Paul Boncour on the one side and Mr. Hugh Gibson, the United States representative at the Disarmament Conference on the other.

Correspondents assert that Mr. Gibson pressed strongly upon the French Premier the advantages of an agreement upon the limitation of land, sea and air effectives.

Long Conferences.

Mr. MacDonald and M. Herriot have had long conferences during the day and this afternoon, Mr. Gibson and Mr. Norman Davis, of the American Delegation, paid a visit to Mr. Ramsay MacDonald and Sir John Simon at Lausanne, to continue previous conversations relating to disarmament.

Afterwards Sir John Simon returned with the Americans to Geneva. (Continued on next column.)

INTEREST SHIFTS TO DISARMAMENT

(THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.)

GENEVA, June 22.
INTEREST for the moment has shifted from Lausanne to Geneva. A stream of journalists, diplomats and statesmen hurried here to-day to attend the meeting of the General Disarmament Committee.

FRENCH PROPOSALS

Sweeping proposals in regard to civil and military aviation were submitted by France to the Air Committee of the Disarmament Conference.

They include the absolute prohibition of aerial, chemical, bacterial and incendiary warfare. The prohibition of aerial bombardment, apart from field, battle or air bases and long-range artillery emplacements; Continental nationalisation of commercial transport aviation, fixing similar bases with a maximum tonnage per unit for non-international civil aeroplanes, corresponding measures concerning trade in, and private manufacture of, arms.

The Canadian delegate contended that the project insofar as it affected civil aviation might be applicable to Europe but did not relate to the situation existing in a large developing country like Canada, which the American delegates endorsed.

The discussion was then adjourned.

COMMISSIONER

HIGH-HANDED ACTION BY MANCHUKUO

(THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.)

PHIPING, June 22.

MR. T. V. SOONG in a statement says, that despite all protests, and violation of treaty arrangements, the Japanese and Manchukuo authorities have now actually seized the accumulated Customs revenues at Newchwang and Antung.

Mr. Soong gives excerpts from telegrams sent by the Commissioners of Customs at Newchwang and Antung.

The former wired on June 20 that the new Superintendent of Finance instructing me to hand over, by cheque, to the Bank of Manchuria the revenues held by the Bank of China, and forbidding further remittance to the Chinese Government. Disobedience will be considered hostile and effective measures will be taken. I refused and was told the revenue will be seized.

This was followed by a second wire on June 21, stating that all revenues held by the Bank of China was removed under force majeure to the Bank of Manchuria yesterday, and protested to the Yokohama Specie Bank and demanded a remittance.

The manager wired his head office for instructions yesterday. The Antung Commissioner wired on June 20: The Bank of China officially informed me to-day that they handed over the revenue balances as on June 19, after the receipt of a threatening letter from the Manchukuo Finance Minister and after a visit of the local Chinese police, who instructed that the revenue should not be touched.

The Bank at the same time informed me, that such small service balances as they held were also handed over.

(THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.)

TOKYO, June 22.

A BANQUET in honour of Mr. Crow, the American Ambassador, was given by the Japanese American Society in Tokyo, those present including Prince Tokomura, Admiral Viscount Saiko and Viscount Ishii.

Viscount Ishii delivered the address of welcome and referring to the rumours of possible war between the two countries, said he considered that this was only possible in two highly improbable contingencies:

(1) If Japan was foolish enough to interfere unduly in the Western hemisphere;

(2) If the United States attempted to dominate the Asiatic Continent, preventing Japan from pacific and natural expansion in this part of the world.

He was convinced, however, he said, that America's only concern in the Orient was the maintenance of peace and respect for treaties.

HONG KONG TENNIS LEAGUE.

FULL PROGRAMME OF MATCHES DECIDED YESTERDAY.

SURPRISE DEFEAT OF CHINESE RECREATION CLUB BY THE U.S.R.C.

A full programme of league matches in the "C" and Mixed Doubles sections of the Hong Kong Tennis League was carried out yesterday and as players had opportunity to put in some practice since last Saturday, the rain having kept off, the form shown was rather encouraging.

The surprise of the day was the overwhelming win the United Services Recreation Club scored over the Chinese Recreation Club in the Mixed Doubles at Causeway Bay. The latter could only claim one set out of the nine played and as they were fancied in some quarters as one of the best sides in the league, their defeat was all the more surprising. In fairness to them, however, it must be stated that they were without the services of their number one lady player, Miss Enid Lo, who has kept away from tennis after her recent accident in the Race Course.

WIMBLEDON TENNIS

COLLINS BEATS COCHET

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, June 22. THERE was a sensation in the second round of the Men's Singles, to-day, when Ian Collins (the British Davis Cup player) beat H. Cochet, 6-2, 8-6, 6-4, 8-3.

Win for Miss Stammers.

The second thrill of the day at Wimbledon was provided by Miss Kathleen Stammers, the extremely youthful British hope, who has suddenly shot to the front rank of British lady players, without succeeding in establishing for herself a place in the Wightman Cup team.

To-day, she caused a considerable surprise by defeating the American challenger, Mrs. L. A. Harper, by two sets to one after losing the first rather badly. She recovered brilliantly and earned a well-deserved victory.

To-day, the young English hope caused her supporters spirits to fade by losing the first set at 6-1, but attacking with remarkable judgment, Miss Stammers took the second set at 8-6 and the third after twelve games.

Mrs. Helen Wills-Moody had an easy passage into the second round.

Among the men who qualified for the third round of the singles were Ian Collins (Britain), Ellsworth Vines (America), Borotra (France), F. J. Perry (Britain), Jack Crawford (Australia).

Results:—Jan Collins beat Henri Cochet, 6-2, 8-6, 6-4, 8-3.

Miss Stammers beat Mrs. Harper, 1-6, 6-0, 7-5.

HOBBS AND SANDHAM IN BIG PARTNERSHIP: "JACK" SCORES HIS THIRD CONSECUTIVE CENTURY.

Big scoring and several splendid individual feats were the order of the day in the week-end cricket programme at Home which has just been brought to a close. Chief interest was centred in the North-South Test Trial as well as the All-India-Worcester match as this served to show the form of the players who will be engaged in the England-India Test match which begins at Lord's on Saturday.

Jack Hobbs and his partner, Andy Sandham, figured in another big first-wicket partnership when they played for their county against Somerset. They put on 284 for the first wicket and while Hobbs scored 123, Sandham made 215. It will be of interest to note that this was the third consecutive century scored by "J.B."

A BUS SERVICE IN HONAN

FIFTY MILE ROUTE BADLY ORGANISED

Huailing, Ho, June 8.—The wheat harvest is in full swing. The people are so busy that there is hardly a sign of life in the city. The busiest streets are almost deserted as no one is coming from the country to do business and most people who live in the city have some interest in the land. The crop is not a bountiful one, but it is fair. The rain which fell about a month ago in this district came too late for the spring crop to derive the maximum benefit, but it came in time to do much good and to allay the fears of hunger for many thousands. The country is quiet just now, and we hear little of bandits or of any very serious trouble. Just recently a motor bus service was started between here and the Yellow River bridge on the Peking-Hankow railway. The distance from here to the bridge is less than 50 miles, and if one goes by train it is necessary to change at Hsinhsiang. The bus company has only two machines, neither of them new. They are charging three dollars for a single trip, and there is no certainty as to the time when the buses will run, for if they do not get a load, they do not go. At a time when there is great need of better communications in North Honan, and when with little expense motor buses could run over many of the roads, it is too bad that a new venture is so poorly organised. Huailing city is about two miles from the railway terminal of the Tsooching Railway. In the winter there are bridges over the Tan and Chin rivers, which flow between the city and the station. In the heavy rains of a month ago both bridges were washed away, and now all traffic has to cross by ferry, at considerable extra expense and much loss of time. The vested interests are still opposed to the construction of good bridges, which would obviate this kind of thing every year.

"JAMES MAC" CASE.

RE-HEARING COMMENCED AT MAGISTRACY.

DEFENDANT UNABLE TO PAY FINE.

Mr. W. Schofield yesterday reopened the case in which Kwan Chut Wah, who was convicted last week for holding himself out as a dentist by private advertisement at 30, Queen's Road, and was fined $200.

The defendant, said his Worship, had been unable to meet his fine and he decided to re-hear the case to see if a lighter fine would meet the circumstances.

Mr. Hin Shing Lo, appearing for defendant, said he would place fresh evidence before the Court and ask his Worship to decide whether any fine would be necessary at all. Drawing attention to the publicity given to the case in the foreign and Chinese Press, Mr. Lo made reference to a report in a Chinese paper where it said defendant advertised himself as James Mac, dentist, and deceived his clients, also that he extracted a tooth for a British sailor, and that in consequence, the sailor had died of septic tonsillitis.

Mr. Lo said that there was no evidence to support the latter statement, and that it was his object to say that there was no evidence to show that defendant had ever held out as a dentist, under the name of James Mac.

New Facts.

Mr. Schofield: "You are asking me to reconsider the whole case right from the beginning."

Mr. Lo then commenced to recall some facts of the case, referring to the visit of a Police Officer who purporting to be a patient and the handing over of the case with the words "James Mac, Dentist."

What was not revealed in evidence, Mr. Lo continued, was that defendant's master had died two days previous to the visit of the Police Officer, and that defendant had been requested to remain at the office in Queen's Road by deceased's wife. Furthermore, deceased left nothing at all when he died, excepting a family and his office.

Defendant, he continued, did not disclose any of these facts at his trial, and in this respect he was to blame.

Mr. Lo suggested that the circumstances were extenuating.

The case was adjourned until Saturday morning after evidence in support of Mr. Lo's statement had been called.

CLAIM AGAINST C.M.S.N. CO.

BIG TYPHOON RESULTS IN DAMAGE TO CARGO.

The China Merchants S. N. Co. China's leading shipping firm, were defendants in an action for alleged damage brought before the Special District Court by Mr. P. C. Boon, a local tobacco importer. Decision was given in favour of plaintiff for Tls. 2,903.60 as compensation for the damages.

Plaintiff, represented by Mr. Paul Premet, told the Court that he stored in the defendants' godown some boxes of tobacco in July and August last. On July 17 last, he wrote to defendants, requesting them to remove his cargo and to have it stored in a dry place, the godown where the cargo was stored being too damp. The defendants, however, failed to carry out the instructions.

On the night of August 20 and 21 last, plaintiff continued, a big typhoon passed over the city and on August 23, plaintiff received a letter from defendants, saying that, as the Whangpoo River rose considerably, it overflowed its banks, resulting in water entering the godown.

Plaintiff immediately asked for a survey by Messrs. Paulsen & Bayes Davis who reported that the floor of the godown where the plaintiff's cargo was stored was only a few inches above the level of the road and that there was no flood protection barriers of any description. The surveyors considered that there were other godowns available at the defendants' wharf, which were much more suitable for the storage of perishable cargo such as tobacco.

Therefore, the plaintiff said, he asked for Tls. 3,018 damages caused by water, alleging that it was due to negligence on the part of defendants that his cargo had been damaged.

There were lengthy arguments from Counsel for both plaintiff and defendants, after which the judge paid a personal visit to the defendants' godown for an examination.

HUGE FINES ON SMUGGLERS.

STRANGE STORY OF A NOVEL.

Strasbourg, May 15.—Fines to a total of £2,650,000 were imposed on a gang of illicit dealers in alcohol convicted at Offenbourg, about ten miles from Strasbourg. The highest individual fine was £215,000, which was adjudged in two cases, and the lowest £500.

Ten of the convicted men were also sentenced to terms of imprisonment ranging from six weeks to 24 years. The latter penalty was passed on a corrupt official whose connivance had rendered the frauds possible. It was alleged during the trial that London bankers were the victims of Hamburg sugar smugglers, whose operations involved the loss of £1,000,000.

A curious turn has been given to the case by the publication of a novel dealing with it. It is said to be evident that the author is intimately familiar with all the operations of the smugglers, the publisher, though taken into custody, has stubbornly refused to disclose his name.

FRANKENSTEIN

THE MAN WHO MADE A MONSTER

"24 HOURS" AT THE KING'S.

Three, exceedingly, popular film stars are co-starred in a film of unusual dramatic power now showing at the King's. The film is "24 Hours," and the favourites to be seen in this production are Clive Brook, Kay Francis and Miriam Hopkins.

The film is a picturisation of a novel that has flourished both in book and serial form for many years. In one round of the clock are crammed as much drama, excitement and romance as comes to few people in a whole lifetime. The casting is excellent, and the direction, masterly: with such a galaxy of talent the acting could not be anything but splendid, and the picturegoer will leave the theatre after seeing this film with the impression that he or she has seen one of the best productions released this year.

Clive Brook, married to Kay Francis, finds himself in a delicate situation with Miriam Hopkins: she has put him to bed whilst he was drunk and he awakens to find her dead body on the floor. He is charged with the murder but the publicity of the courts serves to clear his honour and to restore him to his wife, herself not entirely free from errors of a moral nature.

Clive Brook as the husband who seeks the solace of a paramour to cover up the loss of an erring wife gives a great performance, while Miriam Hopkins repeats the success she scored in "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," when it will be remembered she also played the part of a lady of a character not strictly moral. Kay Francis is her usual beautiful self, and gives her customary accomplished performance.

"THE PERFECT

BRITISH THRILLER AT THE QUEEN'S.

Can the perfect crime be planned? A. A. Milne, the celebrated British author, gives his answer in "The Perfect Alibi," which opened yesterday to crowded and enthusiastic audiences at the Queen's Theatre.

The play tells the dramatic story of two criminals bent on vengeance against the man who convicted them twenty-five years before. In gratifying themselves into his home and confidence, and trading on the fact that he fails to recognise them, they murder him and cover their tracks with a perfectly manufactured alibi. Each man's story hinges on the movements and whereabouts of the other at the time of the crime.

Although the audience is always aware of the identity of the murderers, even sees the crime committed, suspense is built to fever pitch by the extraordinary manipulation of the plot which the author has provided for the discovery and arrest of the criminals. How it is done is the big thing in "The Perfect Alibi," and Queen's Theatre audiences seemed to relish the appeal to the mind which the film offered.

But "The Perfect Alibi" has more action than mental gymnastics, and there are some excellent players in it, including C. Aubrey Smith, Warwick Ward, Dorothy Boyd and Robert Lorraine.

A rattling British thriller which should not be missed.

Barber, Adrienne Ames, Charlotte Granville, Minor Watson, Lucille La Verne and Wade Boteler.

CLEVER WINNIE

APPEARS IN "SHE COULDN'T SAY NO."

A trade notice states:—
It is an undeniable fact that Winnie Lightner, the American comedienne of vaudeville and musical comedy, is chock-full of a most engaging variety of personality, and it is equally sure that in "She Couldn't Say No," the Warner Bros. and Vitaphone production which opens to-morrow at the Queen's Theatre, she gets it over to the audience in a most remarkable fashion.

Has Dramatic Role.

Miss Lightner is delightful, and in her characterization of a cabaret entertainer, who lavishes her affection on a man, only to see him turn to someone else, she plays many dramatic sequences, and plays them well. Which is surprising when one considers that in the past she has been considered a comedienne first, last and always.

The entire story is told against a background of night clubs and theatres, and in these garish surroundings there is unfolded a dramatic tale which is unusually effective in its emotional appeal. The atmosphere is wonderfully maintained, and there is a sincerity on the part of the players which serves to raise this production to a high point among the film releases of the year.

Morris in Lead.

Chester Morris, the brilliant young stage actor who registered such a sensational hit in his first picture "Alibi," plays the leading male role opposite Miss Lightner, and does it in a manner which goes far to explain his immediate elevation to virtual stardom. Other players who do good work are Sally Eilers, Johnny Arthur, and Tully Marshall. Lloyd Bacon, famous as the director of Al Jolson's highly successful pictures, was in charge of the filming of "She Couldn't Say No," and he has done superlatively well.

"THE MAGNIFICENT LIE."

RUTH CHATTERTON FILM
AT THE QUEEN'S.

A trade notice states:
When "The Magnificent Lie," Ruth Chatterton's latest starring picture, is shown around the country, audiences in many cities will recognize in the leading male rôle a one-time favourite stock player. He is Ralph Bellamy, young, tall, handsome, who toured the country in stock before getting which has led him to the door of moving picture fame.

In "The Magnificent Lie," which will show at the King's Theatre, starting Sunday, young Bellamy makes his screen bow. As Chatterton's leading man, he steps into a rôle which should advance him far on the road to stardom. In motion picture circles, he is already considered a "find."

Bellamy, in "The Magnificent Lie," plays the rôle of a sincere young lumberman, who is duped by Miss Chatterton into believing she is a famous French musical comedy star. Miss Chatterton undertakes the deception on a laughing wager, but the man's sincerity quickly turns her feeling to real love. Then she lacks the courage to disillusion him. Bellamy discovers her true character, and the love which has grown up between them is put to a severe test.

"The Magnificent Lie" is an other of the distinguished pictures Miss Chatterton has been contributing to the screen. The list includes "Sarah and Son," "Anybody's Woman," "The Right to Love," and "Unfaithfully." The story was adapted from the novel, "Laurels and the Lady," by Leonard Merrick.

The picture was directed by Barthold Viertel, the celebrated European director and playwright. Stuart Erwin, playing his first dramatic rôle for the movies, and Sam Hardy, are in the cast.

BOWERS AND MONTE BLUE.

IN EXCITING TALKIE
"SKIN DEEP."

A trade notice states:—
John Bowers, who has an important rôle in support of Monte Blue in "Skin Deep," Warner Brothers all-talking Vitaphone production of a great city's underworld, opening Sunday at the Queen's Theatre, is another of the screen's outstanding figures who have attained additional prominence in talking pictures.
